GRADUATE FELLOWSHIPS
DEVELOPING THE LEADERS OF THE FUTURE, MAKING A DIFFERENCE FOR GENERATIONS

Pursuing a graduate degree is no small decision. Graduate students must juggle rigorous coursework and research with their personal lives and professional development. Naturally, the best and brightest candidates are attracted to top-quality programs that invest in their success with prestigious fellowship awards.

At Carnegie Mellon, our supporters play a key role in addressing the needs of talented, sought-after graduate students and eliminating the financial barriers they face to their advanced degree. Along with providing resources for tuition, stipends, professional development and more, fellowships are a powerful statement of the university’s confidence in the potential of these future leaders.

When you support fellowships at Carnegie Mellon, you make it possible for the brightest graduate students to pursue their aspirations, conduct innovative research and creative work, and prepare to lead the future of their fields.
“CMU FELT LIKE SOMEWHERE WHERE I COULD GROW AND THRIVE. The faculty and students really care about each other’s well-being. I’m glad to be part of this wonderful community.”
— Sam Nance
Ph.D. Candidate, Mellon College of Science
